

How to Write a Research Paper

ABSTRACT

This paper presents some preliminary results of a larger study that investigates the teachers' motivation in the higher secondary classrooms. So as to discover by what factors teachers' motivation is affected, 181 teachers were given questionnaires comprised of three points Likert-type scales, and they were given interviews. Findings revealed that the gender does matter where teachers' motivation is concerned. That is, female teachers are less motivated to teach in this level compared to their male counterparts.
